President's Message June 2013

Sometimes I'm too clever for my own good. The deck on the house needs to be stained before we get out the furniture and grill (yeah, yeah, it's already June) and today seems like a good day. It'll be dry outside and tomorrow too. So I start early, wash it, scrape it, do some priming, get everything ready. But there's one little issue - its 9:00 am and the temperature is already 80. It's going to be maybe 91 and humid and the deck is in full sun. It will be miserable out there and I don't want to do it. But there's plenty of time to find some excuse not to.

Simply put, its summertime. If I'm going to get sweaty I'd rather wash an old car and then cruise around. Put the windows down, enjoy the breeze. Which makes me wonder, whatever happened to vent windows? And hardtops? Remember the vents you could open under the dash? And there used to be a lot more convertibles. You could go for a family drive and enjoy the breeze. Maybe it was hot, but you didn't notice, or didn't care.

Today we are hermetically sealed in our cars, windows up, no vents, hostage to "climate control" (what an arrogant name - ask the people in Oklahoma about "climate control"). Set the temperature and be protected from the elements (of course we go from our sealed up cars into our sealed up houses with the A/C blasting away. Does anybody actually open a window these days?).

Anyways, summer in upstate NY can be fleeting, so enjoy it, heat, humidity, all of it. Roll down a window, feel the breeze. January is just around the corner, but that's another story....

Matt
